FAMILY FOCUS

Good morning, and welcome to Sunset! Whether you've been part of the Sunset family for many years or this is your first time with us, I am so grateful that you're here as we worship God for the abundant blessings he has poured into our lives.

Yesterday, we had an awesome community Easter event! Many families from our community came to Sunset and experienced some fun activities and heard about how the good news of the Risen Savior changes lives. A huge thank you to Chris Livingston and his selfless team of volunteers who made yesterday so special!

This morning, we are taking a pause from the Exodus sermon series to reflect on a passage that, among several things, vividly illustrates the transformative power of Jesus's resurrection. In this passage, the Apostle Paul shares his personal journey of transformation. He used to value his religious heritage and social status above all else, but once he encountered the risen Jesus, everything changed. At that point, he had one life goal: to know Jesus. That's it.

Philippians 3:1-14 calls us to reflect on what we most value and to see that everything pales compared to knowing Christ—his perfect life, humble death, and glorious resurrection!

I love you all,
Phillip
